

Richard Brenner Hurt In Mystery Sea Attack Kills Self Today Near Ellenville

New York City Man, 60,
Leaves Two Notes, One Addressed to Attorney in Manhattan; Second Unexplained

Widow Collapses

Coroner Humiston Issues Verdict of Suicide Due to Carbon Monoxide Gas

A slippery muddy road was mentioned as the only obstacle in a note left by Richard Brenner, 60, of 115 Northern Avenue, New York city, who was found dead in his car on the muddy road to Cragmoor, two miles from Ellenville at 8:30 o'clock this morning.

Coroner Howard B. Humiston of Cragmoor issued a verdict of suicide due to carbon monoxide which came from the car's exhaust pipe through a two-inch rubber hose.

Two notes were left by Brenner, the coroner said, one of them intended to notify his lawyer, Jacob Axelrad, of 225 Broadway, New York, and written by typewriter and the other in pencil bearing the following message:

"Could not make call on account of muddy road. The car is back. I am sorry for this trouble."

Richard Brenner,
Attorney Puzzled

The New York attorney, according to the Associated Press, was unable to account for the curious note.

"I knew he was worried over financial matters," the attorney said, "but his mind was perfectly clear and I don't understand what he meant by such a note."

Brenner, a veteran amusement park concessionaire, who owned several concessions at Palisades Park, N. Y., is survived by his wife and mother. The widow, informed of his death, collapsed.

Second Note

In his other note Brenner wrote:

Please notify my lawyer, Mr. Jacob Axelrad, 225 Broadway, New York City, Barclay 2-2443, who will take care of things for me as he believes I have gone on a long trip. Please do not notify my wife as I believe she could not stand the shock unless the news were broken to her by Mr. Axelrad. Will you be good fellows to respect his wish. Thanks, Richard N. Brenner.

Brenner's car was found off the road in a muddy ditch the coroner said. The red rubber hose had been extended through one window and the opening near the top of the window filled with rags to prevent the lethal gas from escaping.

The coroner said he found the car slumped in the front seat of the car when he arrived with the body attached to the wheel of the machine. He had been seen near the spot about 10:30 o'clock Monday night, the coroner said, by a man who knew him.

It is believed that he backed the car off the road and let the motor run sometime after he was asleep, driving along the road, which is a back route from Ellenville to Cragmoor.

The man who had talked to Mr. Brenner, the coroner said, was told that he intended driving to Mount Pleasant. The coroner said he was unable to learn definitely whether or not Mr. Brenner was a frequent summer visitor to Ulster county, but it was evident, he said, that he was known in the vicinity of Ellenville.

One foot was on the accelerator of the car when the body was found, the coroner said, indicating that Mr. Brenner had run the motor until overcome by the gas.

New Power Angle

Attorney General Bennett
Says State Might Enter
Water Power Business

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP)—New York's entry into the water power business was foreseen by Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr. today should the state win pending litigation over indemnification of water rights.

Testifying before the constitutional convention's utilities committee, reconsidering a previous killed proposal designed to guarantee state control of water resources, Bennett asserted, however, that the measure would not arm private companies if it were approved.

"Neither," said the attorney general, "would the state be barred from collecting equitable rentals on present privately operated power sites, under this proposal."

The committee which consented to reconsider the proposal after a warning from Governor Lehman of "danger that these water power resources may come into private hands," deferred until after further hearings a decision on whether to report the measure for convention debate.

Head covered with bandages, Mrs. Alice Duncan, 34, is taken off the liner Normandie at New York. Seamen said she was beaten by her husband, Dr. Robert M. Duncan, 75, Colgate University professor, when he tried to throw her overboard. Officers of the liner reported the woman was rescued from her husband, but that Dr. Duncan disappeared from the ship's deck 450 miles from New York.

Federal Agents Probe Colgate Professor's Death From Big Liner

Probing Group Raps
O'Connor Murder Case

Philadelphia, Aug. 2 (AP)—A legislative commission investigating court procedure reported today that the accusation of Mary Keenan O'Connor of murder in the death of a child was "largely the result of a compromise reached through considerations foreign to every concept of orderly legal process."

Miss O'Connor, 19-year-old, physical education student, was acquitted of murder and manslaughter charges in the death of five-year-old Nancy Glenz, found face down in a mud road last Labor Day.

The commission's report to Governor George E. Darie accused virtually everyone connected with the investigation and trial—police, coroner, prosecution, judge and jury.

Merchants Start
Poster Campaign

The Mayor's "Sales Mean Jobs" campaign committee is distributing posters, show cards and stickers to the merchants who have signed the pledge of the campaign for "sound merchandise or service values."

The official posters for the Kingston campaign are orange, printed in black. These posters and advertising material have been designed and printed by a Kingston firm, by Kingston craftsmen and are distributed to co-operating merchants at cost by the committee.

While the Kingston committee can take no exception to outside advertising materials, it nevertheless points out that these posters purchased do not contribute to the Kingston campaign.

The public can identify the co-operating merchants by the orange and black signs.

Sign Pledge

More merchants are signing the "sound merchandise value" pledge each day.

The second report included the following:

Chester Baltz Mfg., Rodney Terminals of Puller Bros. Co., Byrne Bros., Boice Bros. Dairy, Governor Clinton Hotel, Harderburgh Furniture Co., Huguenot Appliance Corp., Austin R. Newcombe Co., Socony Vacuum Co., Kingston Oil Company, Doty-Reinold Heating Co., Franklin Pharmacy, Tom's Square Auto Supply, Governor Clinton Market, Zucca Body Co., Roosa's Taxi Co., Tony's Brake Service, Vanderlyn Battery Co., F. B. Matthews Co., Salzmans Bakery, Schwab's Bakery, Decker & Fowler Co., Everett's Bakery, Prommer Petroleum Co., Gruenwald's Bakery, Kraft's Market, Ulster County Press.

The seaman, "went down to time to time to see Mrs. Duncan from her husband's grip," Villar said. "He carried her to a companion way, put her down and then went back to see about Duncan, but the man had disappeared."

A search disclosed no trace of him. "When Mrs. Duncan was revived," Villar said, "the first thing she said was, 'see my husband. He is going to commit suicide.'"

The pursuer said Mrs. Duncan could not explain her husband's actions.

Officials of Normandie Give Report That Dr. Duncan
Vanished at Sea 450 Miles
From Port of New York

New York August 2 (AP)—Federal authorities were conducting an inquiry today into the bizarre story of a midnight death struggle on the liner Normandie which ended in the disappearance of a young college professor and the serious injury of his wife.

Officers of the French liner reported yesterday that Dr. Robert M. Duncan, 75, assistant professor of politics at Colgate University had vanished at sea, 450 miles from New York, after attempting to throw his wife Alice overboard.

Mrs. Duncan, mother of two small children and daughter of an associate of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., arrived in the ship's hospital, bruised and beaten, and was a patient in the Montclair, N. J. Community Hospital.

Mrs. Duncan was taken from her parents' home in Montclair to the hospital last night and placed in the care of Dr. Frank Foster. The hospital said her condition was "fairly good" and that she had spent "a reasonably comfortable night."

Her father, Willard Samuel Richardson, former Bankus minister, has been advised on philanthropies to the Rockefeller family since 1912.

Dr. and Mrs. Duncan left June 27 for a North Cape cruise on the liner Paris. The vessel, Duncan's father, the Rev. William Duncan, in Scotland and boarded the Normandie in Southampton, England.

Henry Villar, the Normandie's pursuer, said they appeared happy on shipboard and at dinner in their cabin on Sunday night together.

Then, strolling on the wind-swept boat deck, they started an argument which was overheard by Seaman Joseph Brouard, the pursuer reported.

"Duncan grabbed his wife by the throat," Villar said, and hit her several times over the head, apparently with some instrument, knocked her unconscious and attempted to throw her over the side."

The seaman, "went down to time to time to see Mrs. Duncan from her husband's grip," Villar said. "He carried her to a companion way, put her down and then went back to see about Duncan, but the man had disappeared."

A search disclosed no trace of him. "When Mrs. Duncan was revived," Villar said, "the first thing she said was, 'see my husband. He is going to commit suicide.'"

National Health Bill to Be Part of New Deal Measure

Details Await Further Talks
Among Reorganization Bill
Backers—Might Be Under Welfare Board

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—The growing controversy over cooperative medicine brought predictions from federal officials today that a broad national health program would be included next winter in a new government reorganization bill.

The program, which would cost the federal and state governments $250,000,000 a year, was suggested recently by a Presidential committee sponsor, said its supervisor, Mr. H. V. Plummer, who is in charge of the reorganization measure.

Details will await further discussions among the congressional backers of the reorganization bill, which the House solved last spring in general power to the president to create a new major disease as well as a direct medical care program.

The American Medical Association, which has opposed the measure, has been asked to consider the objective of the program, which is to provide medical care for the poor.

Now, along with the Medical Society of the District of Columbia, the A.M.A. faces a "partial" investigation for opposing the reorganization bill, a Washington Post editorialist said.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the A.M.A. journal, denied the charge that the national health program was a "conspiracy to prevent doctors from practicing in a ridiculous way."

The A.M.A. entered the fray promptly with a statement that the controversy could be expected to end with the federal reorganization bill, which would give the courts to decide the question of the United States to its health in every phase of life and living."

Eddy Bros. Show Is Rained Out, Hunt Reminisces

Rain last night kept what might have been a capacity audience out of the big top of the Eddy Brothers Circus brought here by Charles T. Hunt, former Kingstonian, who has been on the road as a showman for the past 45 years.

A heavy wind about six o'clock seemingly cancelled all of the rain laden "thunderheads" over the Athletic Field and a half hour later they let loose with a down-pour that drenched the grounds, soaked the canvas and kept people away from the evening show.

With Charley Hunt though, the show must go on, and the night performance was presented with less than 100 spectators in the big tent. Despite the weather, those who did brave the rain enjoyed the circus, remarking that it compared favorably with any show of its size on the road.

The visit of Charley Hunt brought back to Kingston a native who branched out into the world in 1893 with next to nothing and built his holdings up in the three ring circus that played here yesterday.

Old friends greeted him and his wife, the former Carrie Tronson, also a Kingstonian, warmly and schoolmates of their children, now grown up, dropped around to talk over yesterday.

About his children, who attended No. 2 public school when Hunt's Circus wintered here, Charley said: "They are the best kids a father ever had. To their mother and them I owe my success."

All of the Hunts are with Eddy Brothers. There's Charles, who works the horses and elephant, and his wife, the former Mildred Adams, an actress.

Harry, the strong man of the show, was ill yesterday and did not work, but his wife, formerly Helen Pretzman, was busy at the ticket wagon.

Charlotte, now Mrs. Harry Levine, does a perch act with her husband, and their children, Harry, Julian and Charles Levine, are breaking in on tumbling acts.

Eddie, the baby of the C. T. Hunt circus family, according to his dad, "is an all round good performer." But his specialty is bareback riding.

Recalling his start as vividly as if it were only a day or two ago, Mr. Hunt a descendant of Colonel Thomas Hunt sent here in 1628 to supervise the activities of British soldiers, said his first show was given on a lot at Washington avenue and North Front street.

"My father, John Hunt thought

Di Muccio Charged With Assault in The Second Degree

Samuel DiMuccio, of 117 North Front street, was arrested today on a warrant sworn out by George Barringer, of this city, who charged DiMuccio with assault in the second degree. Later DiMuccio was arraigned before Judge Cahill in police court where he waived examination and was held for grand jury action. Bail was fixed at $500.

Mr. Barringer appeared at the city hall this morning with his head bandaged.

Frank Ferola, of Syracuse, arrested on a charge of petit larceny, pleaded not guilty and the hearing was set for Thursday. He is accused of stealing a pipe from the store of Young & Hens on Broadway at Railroad avenue.

Arrested at Saugerties
Morris Murphy, of New York city, who was alleged to have been peddling in Saugerties, was arrested there this morning by Officer Mills on a disorderly conduct charge. Justice Charles H. Bennett gave him five days in the Ulster county jail. James Burns, arrested at the same time time on a charge of vagrancy, was given a 10 days suspended sentence.

Two Community Nights
The two Community Night programs that were washed out by rain Monday evening will be staged this evening, one in Block Park and the other in Hutton Park.

My plan of going on the road with a few horses, some dogs and my wife act was ridiculous," said Hunt, "but when I returned from seven weeks touring with $1,300 he changed his mind."

From then on the parent encouraged his son, and gave him financial aid—consequently C. T. Hunt, with his knack of showmanship and business management is rolling right along with his trailers with dates to play for the rest of the season.

"We haven't got the greatest show on earth," concluded Hunt in saying goodbye, "but we have one that takes with the circus fans and that's what keeps us on the road while the more elaborate shows with fancy prices are folding up."

Asked about business, Hunt told the reporter that his best day was at Haddonfield with a $2,500 house and next at Princeton, N. J., with a $1,700 take.

The organization known as the Circus Fans of America has honored this Kingston showman by naming one of their units, Charles T. Hunt Tent, No. 22, at Trenton, N. J.

Securities Showed Losses on Monday

In limited trading yesterday, volume being 590,000 shares, stocks opened off from Saturday's close and finished the day with all classes of securities showing losses. Industrials were off 0.88 to 1.40.37 in the Dow-Jones averages. Rails lost 0.30 point for the day, to 26.15; utilities dropped 0.13 point, to 20.50. With the exception of high grade rails corporate bonds were lower; government bonds mostly unchanged. Despite reports from Texas of insect and weather damage cotton dropped as much as 14 points; wheat was off 7 1/2 cent in Chicago; rubber was lower. Arbuckle offered refined sugar for delivery within 30 days at 4.20 cents a pound, a reduction of ten points.

It is stated that practically no bank credit at all has been involved in the $8,000,000,000 increase in New York Stock Exchange securities since the end of May. Exchange reports member borrowings at the end of May amounted to $459,000,000. By the end of June these loans had advanced only $11,000,000, although stocks enjoyed most of the rise which has increased their listed value by almost 23 per cent in two months, in the first half of June. Low margin requirements and a tremendous amount of idle funds investment are said to be chief factors in the situation.

Steel operations for this week are scheduled at 39.8 per cent of capacity, a rise of 2.8 points over last week. In the Chicago area a contra-seasonal improvement in demand is noted.

Some dividend actions, unchanged from previous payments, are: General Motors, 25 cents on common; International Nickel, 50 cents; Collins & Aikman Corp., 25 cents; Atlantic Refining, 25 cents; Standard Oil of Indiana, 25 cents; Secony Vacuum Oil Co., 25 cents.

Bigelow-Sanford Carpet Co. took no action on dividend; paid $1.50 on preferred June 1 and $1.50 on common December 1 last. Harbison-Walker Refractories voted quarterly preferred but took no action on common.

It is stated that the sharply increased loss of Packard in June quarter is result of broader engineering program in preparation for 1939 models and does not reflect loss of sales or increased cost.

PWA Administrator Jakes has charged that certain building industries in Detroit, operating with aid of union labor, are acting to prevent free and open competition in bidding on PWA projects; declared that, as a result, all allotments to the city are in serious jeopardy.

Among companies reporting net income for six months ending June 30 are: Commercial Investment Trust, income of $7,866,166, or $2.31 a share, compared with $11,573,865, or $3.43 on common in the 1937 period. Wheeling & Lake Erie R. R. had income of $309,400, or $2.93, $63, in first half of last year. Harbison-Walker Refractories, $229,600, or ten cents a share, vs. $2,013,100, or $1.41 a share. Western Auto Supply, $209,770, or 28 cents a share, vs. $1,017,684, or $1.35 a share. Youngstown Sheet & Tube, deficit of $21,496, vs. income last year's period of $6,908,131, of $4.08 a share. Blaw Knox Co. income of $48,888, or four cents a share, vs. $1,295,513, or 97 cents a share. Anaconda Wire & Cable, deficit of $482,133, vs. income of $1,741,250, or $4.13 a share. Electric Auto Lite, deficit of $183,657, vs. income (after preferred dividends) last year of $2,318,275.

Utah Copper, largest domestic producer of Kennecott Copper Corp., renewed its mine at Bingham, Utah, and recalled to work 2,500 men, laid off in the middle of June. Rate of production will be about one-half of capacity.

In the Harlan coal conspiracy case a mistrial was declared yesterday, after the jury had deliberated ten hours without arriving at a decision. Trial started May 16 and required 11 weeks of testimony and argument.

"Mad Anthony" Wayne Is Buried in Pennsylvania
Although Pennsylvania has two graves of "Mad Anthony" Wayne, he still remains a shadowy figure of the Revolutionary war to many Americans. History writers in the main have failed to provide many details about him, notwithstanding the fact that he was one of Washington's most colorful generals. He was the son of a Chester county farmer and lies buried, officially, in Old St. David's churchyard, Devon, observes a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer. Not far away is the land his father tilled. Still closer is the community which bears his name.

His original grave, still decorated as such, is on Presque Isle, on the shore of Lake Erie, where he died from an old war wound in the leg. "Bury me at the foot of the flag-staff," he said, and that was where he was laid to rest. At that time he was commander-in-chief of the United States army.

In 1809, 13 years after his death, his family had his remains removed to Old St. David's. Approximately 100 years later—in 1908 to be exact—the state erected a statue in his memory at Valley Forge.

Cave Lighted by Glowworms
One of the wonders of New Zealand is the Waitomo cave in the province of Auckland. It is rich in stalactite and stalagmite formations, and is lighted not by naked lights or electricity, but by millions of glowworms, says London Tit-Bits Magazine. Hundreds of people visit the cave every year for a glimpse of this amazing sight, for the insects line the roof and do not twinkle. Silence is enforced, as the noise of speech has the effect of making them switch off—a natural protective instinct. Glowworms and fireflies are, of course, plentiful in all tropic regions, where it is sometimes possible to read a newspaper by the light they give. In India "shikaris" (hunters) often stick them on the foresight of a rifle for night shooting.

Oldest Part of North America
Gaspé is reputed to be the oldest known part of North America and historians say it had been visited by adventurous white men from Iceland and Greenland as early as the Twelfth century. Many parts of the coast are noted for their rugged grandeur and one of the steepest marvels is the giant rock at Percé, where the herring gull and the cormorant breed and have bred for hundreds of years. The birds of this part of the Gaspé coast are a study in themselves.

Have Many Tropical Names
On the nautical map of the Virgin islands the names of land and water formations spell the tropics—simple, alluring, remote—as: Privateer bay, Compass point, Whistling cat, Lagoon point, Mermaid chair, Rendezvous bay, Flamingo point, Limetree bay, Chocolate hole, Cinnamon bay, Watermelon cay, Prune bay, Grapefruit bay, Sugar bay, Ramogot cay, Cowpet bay, Lizard rock, Hogsmot point, Shark island, Ram head and Turtleback rock.

Marijuana Long in Use
In Asia Minor and India, where its influence first was felt, priests 3,000 years ago used various forms of marijuana to induce religious frenzy. It was not until 1845 that a French doctor made a detailed study of its effects and the relation between "hashish" excess and insanity. Since then, use of the weed has spread over the entire world. In the United States, "killers for hire" smoke a "muggle" or two to bolster their nerve.

$350,000 Spent On Harlan Trial

London, Ky., Aug. 2 (AP).—The federal government and the defense in the eleven weeks Harlan anti-labor conspiracy trial spent an estimated $350,000 without a decision whether a conviction is possible on a criminal violation under the Wagner labor act.

Court attaches made the estimate after Federal Judge H. Church Ford late yesterday discharged the hopelessly deadlocked jury which had deliberated 9 hours and 53 minutes. Brian McMahon, chief of the government counsel, announced today that Federal Bureau of Investigation men would go back into Harlan county immediately to stay until the next trial.

When the jury was discharged, McMahon moved for an immediate retrial. Judge Ford set September 17 at Lexington as the time he will hear the government motion. Thirty-nine individuals, many of them former peace officers and 16 corporations were tried on charges that they conspired to prevent unionization of the Harlan coal fields under the labor act.

Jury Foreman L. F. Johnson, a general store proprietor, told the judge the jury stood 7 to 5. Individual jurors said later seven were for acquittal and five for conviction. Of the seven voting acquittal, court attaches said they understood reliably four were Clay countians.

IN NEW MURDER TRIAL ROLE

First time former Deputy Sheriff Francis M. Carroll (above) went to court in the murder case of aged Dr. James G. Littlefield, he attended as a guard for the defendant, young James Dwyer, who was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment, partly on evidence obtained by Carroll. He is shown above as he went the second time—as the defendant. At the second trial the roles are reversed—Dwyer accused Carroll of being the actual killer. Carroll is pictured taking his seat in the South Paris, Me., court.

Scarcity of Beards Noted
By French Game Groups

Paris, (AP)—French cafe proprietors who encourage any gambling game that has to do with buying drinks for the winners are seriously disturbed over the fact that the bottom has dropped out of the French beard market.

Many a Frenchman used to play "tennis barbe" on the terraces of cafes in Paris. They sat on the terraces and watched for men with beards. The first man to reach a ten score won. White beards counted one, black beards two and red beards three.

The game has few followers now, for beards are not as fashionable as they used to be.

HOW TO BE A LEADER IN BASEBALL

Training advice from Paul Pilgrim

Former Olympic Champion; now Manager of Athletics, New York Athletic Club

"Baseball, like most other sports, calls for loose muscles if you're going to get in the champion class. Loose muscles enable you to get started faster, move faster. That's the reason the two exercises given below are so important in training for baseball. The first, although very simple, helps to get your shoulder, arm and back muscles more supple—it's extremely valuable for an infield player because it conditions the muscles you use in getting down to snag a grounder. The second exercise loosens your leg muscles so you can get there faster when you're after a ball or running the bases. So keep at these exercises, drink plenty of milk and you'll lay a solid foundation for success in baseball."

"Milk is the key to athletic success"

Says BILL TERRY

Former star first baseman, now managing the Giants

"Milk is the most essential part of every champion's diet. It tones up the system, builds real energy reserves and helps to develop split-second physical and mental coordination. Fresh milk keeps you at the top of your form always."

THE FREAK HOUSE

The freak house is out of style. The "dolled-up house"—all full of queer gables and unnecessary angles, is no longer in favor. The Small House Architectural League, whose object is to provide homes of low cost and good architectural design, maintains that simple lines are more apt to be good lines than complex ones are. And it finds that the freak houses do not wear well. They not only require far more costly repair than the simpler ones, but the eye soon tires of them, and the house at first designated as "cute" by the neighbors in a very few years has become the neighborhood eyesore. The fussy houses are more difficult to resell than the plain ones, and hence are poorer security for mortgage loans.

The general public has begun to find out some of these things from experience with the gingerbread houses. It is now demanding houses easier to build and to maintain. After all, the appearance of a good small house of simple lines can be changed greatly by variations in planting, window-boxes or paint. Whatever the color and landscaping design, the house remains pleasing. But the queer little triangles and trapezoids of the gingerbread house cannot be disguised. There they are, and there, unpleasantly, they remain. The well-proportioned exterior gives continued pleasure through the years to the owner, the neighbors and the casual passer-by. Likewise, the simply proportioned room lends itself to a variety of decorations, and hence to change of appearance at little cost. The architectural societies which are laying stress on these matters are doing a good work.

TANK AND SCOUT

When an Urbana, O., company told the Boy Scouts of its vicinity that they could have an 8,000 gallon steel tank half-buried in the earth if they could do anything with it, most people laughed. They thought it was a joke on the youngsters. Not so the Scouts. They wanted that tank to use in a water supply system for their camp, and they meant to have it.

Engineers smiled and dismissed the tank as not worth fussing with. Boys, however, are apt to have a different set of values from grown-up engineers. Water in camp is valuable. Boy power is summer energy running to waste unless harnessed. The Scouts took their own engineering in hand. First they dug a trench all around the buried tank. Then they borrowed some fire hose and were allowed the use of a fire hydrant. They flooded their excavation and floated the tank out of the hole. The state highway officials were so impressed that they promptly provided a truck to haul the tank to camp.

Scouts are interesting creatures. They are near enough to childhood to remember that "children have their play on the seashores of worlds"; but they are near enough to manhood to understand the use of tools and scientific principles. If any really difficult and unusual problem presents itself, ten to one the Scouts will be able to rig up something that will solve it.

A SHIP TO SAIL ON

The British have just launched a new Mauretania amid the cheers of nearly 100,000 enthusiastic watchers. It is a namesake, of course, of the earlier Mauretania, recently retired and broken up, which was long England's most popular ship in the United States. She was the greatest record holder from 1907 to 1929, when the liner Bremen crowded her out of first place.

The new Mauretania is a 34,000-ton ship, designed especially to cater to the lower-priced transatlantic trade. She is the largest ever built in England—both the Queen Mary and the Queen Elizabeth were built in Scotland. She will be able to carry 1,250 passengers in three classes, cabin, tourist and third. In accordance with the current trend in ships, accommodations for the third-class passengers will be spacious, with motion picture theatre and all the other usual public spaces. The official staff has not yet been announced to the public, but it is said that her master will be an experienced seagoing gentleman named Guy Dolphin.

The new Mauretania is expected to be faster than her sister ships but will not compete with the contenders for crossing records. The nations are wise to build such ships, rather than continue indefinitely the race for bigger and speedier vessels in the luxury liner class.

THE UNLUCKY EIGHTH

One person in every eight who bought a used car on the instalment plan in the year 1937 failed to meet his obligations and lost his car. Only one out of 25 buyers of new cars lost out within the year. The period of payment for cars, however, in only too many cases runs to 18 months or two years, so the end of that story has not yet been told.

The lost cars represent a small percentage of genuine bad luck—that is to say, unforeseen illness or loss of job which could not be avoided. But a large percentage of the losers were persons of bad judgment about their finances. The American goes so gaily out to buy his car—so gaily uses it for a time, letting its payments put him behind with the grocer and the landlord and so cheerfully lets it go with a hope for better luck next time, but with his family and his other creditors in worse shape than before. If he could but watch his step a little more closely, markets of all kinds would be sounder.

But anyhow, says he, look at the seven fellows who kept theirs! And the 24 buyers of the new models who are still driving them. True. Most of us, after all, do pay our bills and continue to enjoy our automobiles.

Yes, they had quaint social standards thirty years ago. A police judge in Cleveland ruled that "kissing on a moonlit porch constitutes disorderly conduct."

Since Babe Ruth retired, baseball seems to be degenerating into a scientific pitcher's duel. Science is fine, but fans crave action.

Speaking of Mr. Roosevelt as a fisherman, it's often hard to tell at the moment just what he is fishing for, but they usually bite.

A speaker tells an audience of business and professional women that "women are as important as men." Is that all?

People are going back to work—and gosh, how they like it!

 INTERFERING WITH MENTAL HEALTH.

At the present time it is estimated that out of every 259 persons in the United States one is a patient in a mental institution. This rate would likely be the same for Canada. While this would mean about a half million mental patients, certainly a large number, it does not take into account the large number who are cared for in their own homes, nor does it take into account the very large number who are affected by mental and emotional disturbances but still go about their work in the home, the office, the factory, or elsewhere. In fact, Dr. J. V. Hisecock, in Yale Journal of Biology and Medicine, says that the total number of these mild or less serious cases (not confined in mental institutions) would outnumber those confined in these institutions.

"Among the physical illnesses, the 'common cold' causes more disability than any other condition. So, in the mental field, the sum of the petty fears and doubts and prejudices, the innumerable subconscious emotional disturbances which prevent everyone of us so-called normal beings from reacting normally to the everyday or real facts of life—these things handicap our society far more than does the financial burden of caring for the violently insane and the feeble-minded. In family life, in industry, in politics, in international affairs, these things—petty fears, doubts, prejudices, emotional disturbances—are real obstacles to fruitful living."

The only difference between ourselves—so-called normal human beings—and the inmates of mental institutions is that we seem to get along just a little better with our fellow men than do these inmates and are able to earn a living. We should therefore take a fair and square look at ourselves and see our petty fears, doubts, prejudices, selfishness, suspicious, in their true light; see how they interfere with our social, mental, and physical progress or health and with our own health and happiness and the health and happiness of others.

This look into ourselves would not only decrease the number of patients now entering mental institutions every year, but would make this world the place it was meant to be for human beings.

LOVE ON THE RANGE

The Story So Far
 A plot is on foot to smash the Rafter T, and "Blair" Ankrom uses a job there to help lovely Lee Treese. She saves his life by shooting Kelton Dreen, an impostor, but he learns this only after Dreen's accomplice, Betty, causes trouble between them. Rafter T, the sheriff, and Claydell, a neighboring rancher, both tell Ankrom that the other is after the Treese land. Then Ankrom learns from Betty, whom Rafter T had jailed, that she and Dreen were Rafter T's tools.

Chapter 28

Tricked

"DID you ever hear Rafter T speak of a man named Hackett—Mose Hackett?" Ankrom asked. Betty nodded eagerly. "He had charge of the rustlers who were plundering Treese's ranch. You mean Rafter T's foreman, don't you? The man you shot?"

Ankrom's cheeks drew taut. That recollection which had sent him hurrying to town had been a lucky one. Treese's remark that Rafter T had taken the girl to town for questioning had been the thing to drop that peg in place. For with the rancher's words Ankrom had recalled the sheriff's reaction to the statement he had made this noon. To his pointing out that a man who would go to such for myself, I'm just telling you how it was. He said he loved me. He'd been telling me what an important man he was out here; a man with a future; a man who might even one day be governor! I imagined myself in love with him. Of course I wasn't—I see that now. I was in love with the pictures he painted. I was a fool, but one night I ran off with him. He brought me here. It didn't last long; it took about a week for the glamor to wear away. When I saw the husk of him showing through I was sick. He wanted me out of the country. But I was determined to stay. To keep from starving I found employment in that cabaret from which I waded to you that night we first saw each other when those thugs were trying to gun you down.

Her eyes clung bravely to his face. She seemed to feel he'd understand.

The Franks Of Fate

HE DID, and it made him feel lower in his own estimation than the lowest snake. Yet he had done nothing to place himself in this position. If she had built her hopes on a false premise, could he be charged to him? He had not said he loved her; he'd done nothing to imply it. It was he, told himself, the fact of his being here that had brought her hopes to their present peak; she must feel he would not have come unless he cared!

"I'm arrestin' you for the murder of Kelton Dreen."

trouble to smash the Rafter T would scarcely be likely to be satisfied with so small a reward as the price of a railroad's right-of-way and the chance to build a boom town, when by damming Treese's valley he could control a veritable kingdom. Rafter T had said: "You're right. I hadn't thought of that."

Yet even with the recollection Ankrom had been afraid to trust his judgment. He had felt he might be swayed by his own antagonism of the man. But he'd been right. Claydell's guess had hit the nail. "What were you and Dreen impersonating the Strutherses for?" he asked.

"As a means of getting on the ranch."
 "But why?"
 "I can't tell you that. It was one of the reasons why I wanted Dreen's papers so badly; I thought Rafter T might have given him written instructions. I wanted a hold on him. But he hadn't. Those papers were only L. O. U's."

Ankrom felt a leaping exultation. Claydell's guess was right; Rafter T was the man!

I Was A Fool

ANKROM dropped the hand that lay in his. The girl's eyes jumped to his face in alarm.

"What is it?" her voice came huskily as he stepped backward from the cell. He caught himself; his part was not played out. There was one more thing he wished to know. "Wait," he said, and stepping close up to the bars he asked: "How did you get tangled up in this? Why did Dreen pick you out to play the role of Struthers' daughter?"

"Dreen didn't," she said, and grimaced. "It was Rafter T."
 "Rafter T?"
 She nodded reluctantly. "I had known him for almost two years. It was because of him I ran away from home and let Dad die of a broken heart. I've never forgiven myself. But I was young and inexperienced. He was so big and strong and handsome." Her lips curled bitterly.

"I'm not trying to find excuses

He realized that his face must in some measure have given him away, for abruptly she pressed close against the bars. "Don't take it so hard, Abe," her voice came softly as her hand touched his cheek. "I never loved him. I didn't, really—not as I love you."

Cold sweat bathed Ankrom's forehead. He was on the point of rushing blindly from the jail when—

"So when Rafter T asked if I would help a man impersonate my father, I told him yes. I believed the time had come when I had it in my power to pay Rafter T back. I had never seen Dreen until Rafter T took me to the hotel and introduced him as the man who was to play my father—"

She broke off as Ankrom thrust close against the bars. "Father? That's the second time you've used that word. Who are you?"

"Betty Struthers."
 "I mean really."
 "Betty Struthers was the name my mother gave me."

Ankrom's stare did not take in the shadow of the floor. He was marveling at the pranks of fate. He was still marveling when a grim voice behind him snarled:

"All right, Streeter! Get up them hands! I'm arrestin' you for the murder of Kelton Dreen!"

A laugh left the girl's lips, and it was not mockery.

He read mockery in her eyes and an icy numbness swept through his veins.

"Here, Blair Ankrom, is where you reap the price of a woman scorned!"

Tricked! A bitter laugh spilled from his lips. Like a sleek, plump fly he stalked into her web and now was caught there fast!

With her words still ringing in his ears he saw the neat simplicity of the trap in which he had been snared. Rafter T had feared he was getting too close to the truth of things. The girl, angered by Ankrom's indifference to her, had been ripe for Rafter T's use. They'd pulled it slick!

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

OLD LYME, Conn.—Today I had a long talk with Edwin P. Norwood, friend of Hugh S. Fullerton, old circus man and theatrical agent who used to pave the way for those fabulous tours taken by Maud Adams.

Norwood has been up here for years and doesn't want to live anywhere else. He has a fine home on a 50-acre tract and the house sits on the crest of a hill right in the center of his land. Perhaps you remember some of those children's books he wrote. He wrote seven, I think, in all, the most noted one being "The Other Side of the Circle." He was a close friend of the late Dexter Fellows, and for a while he did some writing for Henry Ford, notably "Ford Men and Methods."

Norwood now is what I suppose you might call the Major-Domo of the Old Lyme Art Association. The Summer exhibition is on now and he is there.

I HAD known Old Lyme to be an important art center, but it was not until I got to talking with Norwood that I realized how singular this Association is.

It has 38 members and 29 of them own homes in the community. And included in this number are names that are famous all over the art world. Their canvases hang in museums and galleries, and, perhaps in your own home if you have enough money to pay for them.

IT SEEMS strange to find so many important men who find time to take an active interest in the life of this small community. But consider this fact: four of them are members of the volunteer fire department. Another has been justice of the peace twice. Still another is master of the Grange, and any number of them have been members of the chamber of commerce.

The exhibition this year is held in the Association's lovely gallery. There are 273 items, including etchings, watercolors, oils, and sculpture. And the gallery doesn't owe a nickel to anybody. Furthermore, not 5 cents of WPA funds went into it. They are very proud of that fact in Old Lyme.

An interesting note is the gallery's guest register which shows that visitors from every state but one visited its exhibitions last year. The lone missing state was South Dakota. This year Norwood decided to write the Governor of S. D. a letter, asking him what the trouble was and wondering when his state would see the light.

But his plans ran aground when the Spring exhibition opened, for the first visitor to register was a woman—from South Dakota.

Washington Daybook

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—At least one group of politicians would not like to see President Roosevelt run for a third term. They are the men with their own eyes on 1940.

For the President to run for a third term would break the hearts of more ambitious political aspirants than could be mended with all the patronage in America.

Right now the people who want to see the Democratic nominee in 1940 extend from McNutt in Manila to Barkley in Paducah, with branch lines running excitedly in all directions to gather in the others.

And what might happen to them if President Roosevelt continued in office until 1944?

Take Mr. McNutt as an example. He is in his forties at present and would age some by 1944. But Mr. McNutt and his friends have been pointing him toward 1940 with such persistence that it would be hard to delay the climax of his boom until 1944. Besides, he might have to come to the United States to hunt a new job to keep himself in the limelight. It takes a awful lot of limelight to reach Manila.

As Good As New
 THE jobs open to an aspiring presidential candidate are limited. Mr. McNutt might spell off the time with a term as Indiana governor, but he already has been governor. He has one advantage over many another candidate, that he really is young enough to be available six years hence. If the President chose to put him in cold storage by appointing him to a cabinet post, he could be taken out in 1944 almost as good as new, and probably still smiling.

The same might be true of Senator Clark of Missouri, who also is young enough to wait. In fact, six years of additional age might not hurt more than one or two of the present possibilities.

They include Senator Barkley of Kentucky and Governor Happy Chandler of the same state, Senator Byrd of Virginia, Governor Earle of Pennsylvania, Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming, Secretary Wallace of Agriculture, Mayor LaGuardia of New York, Secretary Ickes of the Interior, Administrator Harry Hopkins of WPA, Vice President Garner, Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, whose state organization already is torching for him, Robert Jackson, solicitor-general, and perhaps some more senators and more cabinet members and more governors.

Enter The Dark Horse
 NUMERICAL age and political age are marked off on different calendars. Years of languishing in wait for 1944 could do any number of things. Foremost possibility is that within that time the lightning might strike some newcomer unknown today.

It would be worse still for the hopes of these Democratic lads if the days of the New Deal should be numbered by 1944.

HUDSON RIVER STEAMBOATS

These articles are written from the collection of George W. Harlock, veteran marine engineer.

No. 50—Oregon

Smith and Dimon constructed the steamer "Oregon" at New York in the year 1845. Her engine was built by the Novelty Iron Works and was of the vertical beam type with a cylinder of 72 inches and an 11 foot stroke.

The 1,200 ton 318 foot "Oregon" was built for George Law and Company for service on Long Island Sound, and on April 1, 1846, she was placed on the regular mail line between New York and Stonington with the steamboat "Knickerbocker."

Two years was the limit of the "Oregon's" service on the Sound, for she was purchased by Daniel Drew and placed on the Albany-New York route, running for the People's Line.

The "Oregon" was billed by her owners as the fastest boat on the Hudson river at that period, and they claimed the championship for her. The late Cornelius Vanderbilt challenged this statement and a race was arranged between the "Oregon" and the "C. Vanderbilt." The race took place on June 1, 1847, the course being from the Battery to a point off Sing Sing and return, a distance of 66 miles. The stake was $1,000.

During the race up the river the two vessels remained about even, but at the turning point, Vanderbilt insisted that his steamer, the "C. Vanderbilt," be kept under full speed while turning about for the return trip.

Kept on Jumping
 Greeley, Ia. (AP)—All day long Junior Schilling, 12, had fun jumping with neighbor children into a large bin of oats. He was mighty tired when he went to bed at night and didn't wake up until after he jumped from a second-story window to the ground 20 feet below.

His mother, roused by the noise, met him as he reentered the house. He was unharmed.

Schmid Says New School to Open and the State College at Albany, where she majored in languages. Miss Kuehn has continued her studies for the past two summers at Western Reserve, having won scholarships both years. She has had three years' experience as a teacher and lately has been teaching at Waverly.

President Schmid said, also, that Superintendent Van Ingen had been busy endeavoring to locate a suitable man for the very important position of principal of the new Myron J. Michael school. It was hoped that a selection might be made by the middle of the month, and that the new principal might be able to arrive in Kingston a couple of weeks before the scheduled time for opening school, in order to familiarize himself with the situation.

Sewing Machines Bought

The board voted to purchase from Aaron Streifer, East Union street dress manufacturer, a dozen Singer sewing machine units, which Mr. Streifer said cost more than $1,200, but for which he offered to take $800. Trustees Katz and Rowland, who had examined the machines, said that they were exceptional buys; had had hardly any use, and they recommended their purchase for use in the new vocational building. The board decided to purchase the machines and store them until the new vocational building is ready for use.

Trustee Feeney reported that the W. W. Kingston Co., general contractors for the Myron J. Michael school, were planning to dispense with the services of a watchman after Friday. As the board will have various items of material and equipment stored in the building before it is completed and turned over to the school authorities, it was thought that the services of a watchman should be retained for another month. The matter was left with the building committee with power to act.

The desirability of clarifying certain portions of the deed, or an accompanying option, connected with the recent transfer by the O'Reilly interests of land to the board for the new school building, was brought before the board in a letter written by Trustee Hutton. The matter was referred to Corporation Counsel J. M. Cashin. It is stated that when the land for the present high school building was purchased from the O'Reilly estate, certain options were given on the lot at the corner of Broadway and West O'Reilly street. When the recent purchases were made, about a year ago, there was some modification of these options and the letter read to the board suggested that the wording of the new option should be clarified in order to avoid any misunderstanding at some future date.

A letter from the state department, referring to plans approved for electrical work in connection with the new vocational school, called attention to the necessity of keeping all work within the appropriation made and also said that no changes should be made in the plans without approval by the state department.

Lightning Rods

An interesting part of the session Monday night was that devoted to a discussion of lightning rods and the necessity of installing them on the new school building. He said that installation of lightning rods would cost around $400. Superintendent Van Ingen read a letter from the state department which favored the installation of approved lightning rods on any building. In the discussion which followed, several members of the board seemed to feel that they were not entirely satisfied as to the value of lightning rods. Mr. Feeney finally withdrew his motion to install the rods, suggesting that the matter be referred to the Underwriters at Syracuse for their opinion.

G. O. P. Elephant Streamlined

Chicago, Aug. 2 (AP).—The Republican party has streamlined its emblem—the elephant. A rampant, charging pachyderm, with trunk aloft and tusks thrust forward, has replaced the gentle, docile animal of yesteryear. John Hamilton, national chairman, was presented yesterday with a model of the new type emblem by members of the Republican program committee. The base bore the words: "Let's G.O. Places."

British History Cleaned

From Public House Signs

Much of Britain's history, and more of its manners and feelings can be gleaned from various public house signs, seen in villages and towns, says Pearson's London Weekly.

Many of these were selected out of compliments of the reigning king, or lord of the manor. The Blue Boar was the badge of Richard III; the Bull's Head of Henry VIII, and the White Hart of Richard II.

The Fox and Hounds and Hare and Hounds were named in compliment to a sporting squire, and the Green Man probably originated when the squire's gamekeeper, appointed to match, sizes 1 to 6, and 7 to 16.

It is thought that the head was thus named. Mr. Chester C. Chilton, after his return from the wars, the Chequer where they will spend the month of August during the month of the Stuart. The Rev. Ernest Parsons, who will occupy the pulpit on morning, August 7. The Daniel Brink will be the preacher for the remaining three Sundays in August.

TENNESSEE MILITIA AWAIT VOTING "JUST IN CASE"

These Tennessee National Guardsmen, shown detraining at Jackson, Tenn., are part of 1,200 held "subject to duty for the state" instead of being sent to army maneuvers in Mississippi as originally planned. Gov. Gordon Browning said he would not send troops into Memphis, stronghold of his political foe, "Boss" E. H. Crump, for election day duty August 4, "unless I change my mind."

Nordwind Crashes

Horta, Azores, Aug. 2 (AP).—The German seaplane Nordwind, on an experimental flight from the United States to the Azores, crashed into a yacht when landing here today, but the crew escaped injury. The nose and one wing of the plane were damaged and the yacht's mast was torn away. The Nordwind arrived at noon (8 a. m., E. S. T.) after flying from Port Washington, Long Island, in 14 hours. Captain H. W. Von Engel, noted German trans-Atlantic flier, was pilot.

Brain's Hearing Adjourned

London, Aug. 2 (AP).—The police court hearing for George Brain, held for Willibrod's "center court" slaying of Mrs. Rose Muriel Atkins, was adjourned today until next Tuesday after an alleged confession of the murder by the truck driver. He was stated to have told police he killed Mrs. Atkins, the "Irish Rose," with a car crank because she threatened to blackmail him.

Brazil Is the Largest State

South America and exceeds in size the United States (exclusive of Alaska) by an area of 250,000 square miles.

Atwood Man Held on Drunken Driving Charge

Frank Bush, 40, of Atwood, was arrested last night by Deputy Sheriff McCullough, Tinnie, and Winne, following a call to the sheriff's office at 10:15 that a drunken driver was on the road near the Drink place. He was taken before Justice Louis D. Sahler, who ordered him committed to the Ulster county jail, following an examination by Dr. Shea, to be held until Wednesday, when he will have a hearing on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Radio Buzzing Discovered

Portland, Ore., Aug. 2 (AP).—The harbor patrol boat Mulkey, developed an unseemly buzzing in its two-way radio. Technicians took the set apart, gingerly removed a hornet's nest.

Rushes to Aid Fisherman

Boston, Aug. 2 (AP).—The Coast Guard cutter Cayuga hurried east today to the aid of an unidentified fisherman seriously wounded in an encounter with a swordfish. Coast Guard headquarters said the trawler Evelyn C. Fields, which was 165 miles east southeast of Boston last night, had sent word the fish had charged the fisherman's dory, ramming its sword through the boat and the man's leg.

Storms Sweep England

London, Aug. 2 (AP).—Storms swept across western England today, battering crops and felling trees, but most of the island sweltered in a heat wave. The worst rainstorm in 40 years flooded streets in the southwest corner of Britain to a depth of eight feet. Motorists had to use headlights during the day.

Two Killed in Orleans

Orleans, France, Aug. 2 (AP).—A nightlong hunt by soldiers in the forest of Orleans brought the discovery today of an army pursuit plane which had crashed, killing two occupants. Authorities said both men, army captains, were instantly killed.

Burial of Custer's Men

An article published by "an eyewitness" describing the burial of Custer's men (June 28, 1876) says: "Early in the morning of the twenty-eighth, all troops, except those left to care for the wounded of Reno's force, repaired to the battlefield and buried the dead of Custer's column, and as few tools were available, and the ground baked hard, interment was not complete in all cases. Custer was buried beneath a huge mound, and an attempt was made to mark the graves of identified officers and enlisted men. In all 212 bodies were buried where they fell."

Thought and Language

In its broadest sense language is any means of expressing thought, and this would include the sounds made by a baby or by a dog, observes a writer in the Detroit News. Only the very simplest of thoughts can be expressed without words, though musical composers, mathematicians and others have their own ways of expressing thought by music, figures and letters, etc. Language had to be evolved in some way or other. Possibly the language of the most primitive man consisted largely of gestures and cries or grunts, but this is mere speculation.

July Set New Rainfall Record

The month of July closed in Kingston with a new high record in rainfall during the month. According to the records in the city engineer's office there was a total rainfall here that month of 6.92 inches, which is practically double the rainfall in any other July since 1933, when the city first began to file records of rainfall in the city.

So far this month there has been a rainfall of .44 inches, the records show.

6 Girls Drown

La Rochelle, France, Aug. 2 (AP).—Six girls under 12 years of age from a state school were drowned today when they stepped into a hole while wading on the beach at St. Martin. A nurse also was drowned when she sought to rescue them.

Reported by Paper Expert

Toronto, Ont.—Development of what is termed a new and "revolutionary" paper-making process, in which fruit-tree prunings and forest slash are used, has been announced by three Toronto re-search workers.

A type of eucalypt paper, at present manufactured from linen rags, is produced under the new process.

T. L. Crossley, consulting chem-ist, and his co-experimenters, H. B. Peterson and R. J. Hart, said in making the announcement that,

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

By Robin Coons

(Our Mr. Keavy, in Hollywood, writes another letter about the new pictures to our Columnist Robin Coons, who is on vacation.)

DEAR COONS:

Well, you missed at least five fill-ums this week. One of them is Harold Lloyd's, which has a flock of laughs. "Professor Beware" winds slowly at first, but after the inevitable chase in on Harold his old Lloyd standard.

You'll be put in an unreciprocated frame of mine by the opening sequences, which have the leading lady (Phyllis Welch, very likeable) out with a movie talent scout who is supposed to be squiffed. The oiled one isn't funny nor is anything he does.

Best laughs: Lloyd trying to escape a tunnel while atop a train, his imitation of a ventriloquist, his car with a tent over it. Maybe you'd better catch it when you get back.

I SUPPOSE "Four's a Crowd" will get some attention. That will be due to performances (by Rosalind Russell, Olivia de Havilland, Errol Flynn, Patric Knowles, Walter Connolly) and some clever dialog. But the piece has so many plot weaknesses and inconsistencies that you can't believe the story.

The best thing about "The Texans," Paramount's 1938 attempt to duplicate its success with "The Covered Wagon" a decade ago or more, is a cattle drive through fire, dust, blizzard and bullets.

The spectacular outdoor action, however, loses its effect by a loosely-acted story involving Joan Bennett as a Texas land queen after the Civil war and Randolph Scott as the hero she snubs until the fade-out.

JED BUELL gathered 40 or 50 midgets and put them in a western called "The Terror of Tiny Town." The idea sounds good but the result isn't fully satisfying. The midgets don't look nearly so small on the screen as they actually are, despite the use of full-size buildings and props.

"Sky Giant" is a story about an aviation school, run by the hard-boiled ex-army officer that every child has heard of, Richard Dix (how's he stay so young, looking) and Chester Morris are the lads and Harry Carey is the driver. Joan Fontaine is the girl.

Some good aerial stuff in this, but the plot has more holes than a window full of doughnuts.

Never mind the fish, Rob. Bring me a ski.

Bains Lash Kobe
Tokyo, Aug. 2 (AP)—Domei (Japanese news agency) reported that torrential rains lashed Kobe today, swelling the Tenno river, smashing dikes and one bridge and flooding 60 houses. Casualties were not mentioned in first reports. In Shikoku Prefecture 7,000 houses were destroyed or damaged.

No Negligence in Lewisohn Death

Greenwich, Conn., Aug. 2 (AP)—A report by Dr. John A. Clarke, medical examiner, today said there was no evidence of negligence in the death by asphyxiation of Walter Lewisohn, 58, one-time Broadway "angel."

Lewisohn, former senior partner in the Lewisohn Bros. banking firm, died Sunday night at Blythebrook Sanatorium, where he had been a patient for 15 years.

Sanatorium authorities said Lewisohn wandered into a cottage which was being fumigated and was overcome by the fumes. Attendants revived him but he died a few hours later.

Lewisohn was a close friend of Joseph B. Elwell, the bridge expert whose murder on June 10, 1920, never was solved.

The banker, known as one of the most lavish spenders on Broadway, joined Elwell in financing many theatrical ventures—one of which, it was said, ended in a $75,000 loss.

Lewisohn, his wife, and Mrs. Lewisohn's sister attended a musical comedy and a hotel dinner with Elwell the night before the bachelor bridge expert was found dead in a chair in his room, a bullet hole in his head.

The collapse of a pool in Seneca copper carried with it much of the Lewisohn fortune, and the banker was committed to the sanatorium in 1923. An accounting in 1928 showed he was worth less than $500,000.

Barn Is Damaged By Fire Monday

Fire, of unknown origin, damaged the two-story frame barn in the rear of 14 O'Neil street, Monday night. The building was used by Michael S. Strawgate, proprietor of the Klondike Household Corp., on Broadway, for storage purposes.

An alarm was turned in at 10:55 o'clock Monday night, and the fire was extinguished at 11:25 o'clock.

According to the fire department the fire broke out on the first floor near the flight of stairs leading to the second floor. Flames went up the siding to the second floor and burst through the roof.

Mr. Strawgate had some mattresses, kitchen chairs, washing machines, small rugs and refrigerators stored in the building.

Sundown Stories

The Sea

"COCK-A-DOODLE-DO, cock-a-doodle-do!" crowed Top Notch, the rooster. "It's time to get up. Don't be a lot of lazy creatures."

"But this is vacation time," quacked Mr. Quacko, as he brought forth his head from under his wing.

"You don't know it's vacation time when you're asleep," cackled Top Notch. "You don't know anything then."

"I know I was having a lovely dream, baa, baa," bleated Sweet Face, the lamb.

"What was it about?" quacked Mrs. Quacko.

"I don't remember," bleated Sweet Face. "But I know it pleased me very much."

"Such nonsense," cackled Top Notch. "It couldn't have been much of a dream when you don't remember it."

"Well, I'm awake now," barked Rip, the dog. "We might as well get started."

"Yes," agreed the little gnome-like man, Willy Nilly, "we'll have breakfast and be on our way."

The word "breakfast" made the bears get up at once. But, as a matter of fact, none of the Puddle Muddlers had left an appetite behind in Puddle Muddle!

Soon Willy Nilly got into his automobile Two-Ways with Rip by his side and Christopher Columbus Crow perched on the fender, while a few ducklings stood back of him. The others got into the trailer.

They traveled and traveled and traveled and just as the sun was about to go down they heard and saw the sea.

Fred Davi Backs Softball Team in Eastern Tourney

The softball team playing in the City League as the Kalamazoo will enter the eastern New York state championships at New Rochelle, August 13 and 14, representing the Crystal Beauty Shoppe, Fred Davi having agreed to sponsor and finance the club in the tourney.

To date the mushers who will play for the Crystal outfit have won 10 straight games in the city league, and Gil Sampson, who is in charge of the traveling group, thinks the Kingston aces will have a good chance in the championships.

Sampson, an enthusiast of softball, and long a bowler of renown, says "Kingston should be represented in the championship play, and if the city can get any good publicity out of it, so much the better. We have mushers here who compare favorably with any around the state, so I look for success at New Rochelle."

Teams will be entered from Westchester and Putnam counties, Orange, Sullivan, Rockland, Dutchess, Greene, Columbia, Delaware and Ulster. Indications are that the total will hit 25.

Today, Sampson said he would have two pitchers, Ben Toffel and Jim Norton, regulars with the Kals in the city league, and added that he intended to procure "Muscles" Balfe and Avery of the Hercules no hit, no run fame. Catchers will be Smedes and Broskie.

Others to make the trip with the Crystals are Herrick, Wilbur, Brooks, Van Deusen, Kelder, Saunders, Shultis, Hanley, Murphy "Red" Schatzel and Swint.

The trip will be made in autos furnished by Manager Davi.

Chief Wood Says Cops From Newburgh Will Be Well Supported in Game

Reasons White Turned to Pros

Pittsburgh, Aug. 2 (AP)—This sports-conscious steel city, already broken out in a rash of "baseball pennantitis," buzzed today with talk of another championship—in football.

While Pie Traynor and his bustling Bucs held their five-game lead in the National League baseball race, Byron (Whizzer) White agreed to put off his Rhodes-scholarship career long enough to score a few touchdowns for Pittsburgh's National Football League Pirates—and accept $15,000 for the season.

Results of White's acceptance of the fabulous offer were these:

1—Art Rooney, head of the Pirates, and Coach Johnny Blood predicted at once the Buccaneers would be the team to beat in the National Football League race.

2—The Philadelphia Eagles had postponed their opening game with the Pirates, scheduled for early September, but word came yesterday they might reconsider because of the crowd White would be expected to draw.

3—Charley Murray, promoter of a Pirate-Eagle game in Buffalo on the night of September 14, wired that he had sold $255 worth of tickets yesterday after newspapers appeared on the streets with the announcements that White would wear a Pittsburgh uniform.

The Whizzer, it became known today, actually will draw more than $15,000 for his season's play. He will get a share of the gate at exhibition games. And he'll get the record purse even if he should be injured and incapacitated, for the contract is written that way.

Curtain Raiser Shows Greyhound

Goshen, Aug. 2—Greyhound Day at Good Time Park here, Tuesday, August 9, promises to pack the stands almost as heavily as the following Hambletonian Day, since the world's champion returns to competition on this speedway for the first time in two years, and juveniles get their chance to parade the future immortals of the turf.

Tuesday's curtain-raiser to the Hambletonian presents the initial Trotting Derby, $3,500 stake for all-aged horses, in which Greyhound, winner of the 1935 Hambletonian, will meet Rosalind, 1936 victor; Farr, second in 1937; and half a dozen other crack performers, such as Calumet Evelyn, Lee Hanover and Ed Lasater.

City League Game Is Postponed

Ocean Wind Is Blamed for Things

Southampton, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP)—If that strong wind keeps blowing off the ocean, almost anything may happen before the end of the 48th annual invitation tennis tournament at the Meadow Club.

The wind was blamed for most of the strange things that occurred in yesterday's opening round.

To start the ball rolling, two of the ten seeded players were eliminated in the first half hour of play. Bobby Herman of Oakland, Calif., No. 6 on the list, took a crushing loss to defeat from Archie Henderson, the Chapel Hill, N. C., newcomer.

Then the fourth seeded star, Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., conqueror of Wilmer Allison and Frank Parker and runner-up to Bobby Riggs in last week's Sea Bright, N. J., tourney, took a 6-3, 6-10, 6-2 beating from Robert Kamrath of Austin, Tex.

On the top of those upsets, Riggs lost a set to William Murphree of Chicago and trailed at 0-2 and 0-40 on his own service in the final set before he won out with a series of brilliantly daring shots, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3. Charles Harr, former British Davis Cupper, staged a similar comeback to beat J. Norman Anderson of New York, 6-2, 3-6.

Looks Like Bundy Against Palfrey

East Hampton, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP)—The chances are that Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Boston and Dorothy Bundy of Santa Monica, Calif., will be fighting it out in the final this week of the Maidstone Club's annual women's invitation meet.

Yesterday, Mrs. Fabyan, seeded second, turned in a 6-0, 6-1 victory over Margaret Anderson of Richmond, Va.

Miss Bundy, top-seeded, and Mrs. Dorothy Andrus of New York, No. 3 on the list, aren't scheduled to play their first matches until today. The only other seeded star, Helen Federszen of Stamford, Conn., won her opening encounter with practically no trouble, beating Cissy Madden of Boston, 6-2, 6-1.

The biggest surprises of the opening round came when Margaret Osborne of San Francisco whipped Virginia Hollinger of Dayton, O., in straight sets, 6-0, 6-2, and Theodora Smith of Los Angeles beat Florence Leboutillier of Old Westbury, N. Y., as decisively, 6-2, 6-4.

Katherine Winthrop of Manchester, Mass., tenth in national ranking, had to go three sets to beat Allison Harrison of Southampton, N. Y., 6-2, 3-6, 6-1.

(By The Associated Press)

Baltimore, Md.—Paulie Walker, Trenton, N. J., knocked out Vince De Angelo, Brooklyn, (1), (welterweights).

Kyanize Lose to Napanoch in 9th

Five hits, three coming in the ninth inning, was enough for the Napanoch Cheviots to overpower the Kingston Kyanize Sunday afternoon by the count of 4 to 2. Up until that fatal final session, Bill Thomas, apparently rid of his sore flipper, had hurled a beautiful two hit game. "Mule" Haas twirled for the Cheviots.

After four scoreless frames, Jack Dawkins tribe got to work on Haas and pushed over two runs, a margin that was expected to be the clincher.

With two gone in the ninth canto Wideltz pumped a sharp single into right field, followed by Haas' double off the screen in left sending Wideltz over to third. Harry Fisher then rolled an easy ball down along the third base line where Ad Stumph, who had played a great game until this time, scooped up the pill and heaved it over Gene Rider's head, allowing Wideltz to romp in with the initial score for the Cheviots. Then came the heartbreaker. Thomas whipped two consecutive strikes past Turner and then a ball. That was the picture. The next pitch came to the rubber and Turner connected with it and sent it into right field. The ball struck the ground as Jack Dawkins was coming in for a home run and the game.

Throughout the game Kingston displayed its superiority in fielding while their flinger, Bill Thomas was hurling the finest game of his career. Facing the losers was Bob Siskler who collected three hits in four trips to the plate. The Kyanize infield was spectacular, especially Van Etten.

Toronto—Frankie Genovese, 146½, outpointed Andre Jessurun, 146½, New York, (10); Jackie Calura, Hamilton, Ont., outpointed Frankie Jarr, Fort Wayne, Ind., (8), (weights unavailable).

Cleveland Indians Face Their Toughest Foes in Next 7 Games

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cleveland Indians, now 2½ games behind the leading New York Yankees as a result of yesterday's ten inning, 11-8 defeat by Washington, face their toughest rivals in the next seven games. The third-place Boston Red Sox, who trail the Tribe by only three games, open a four-game series at Cleveland today and after them the Yanks move in for three games.

If Cleveland can walk off with a good share of these games, it has a fine chance to take the lead.

Detroit's Tigers were threatening to become dangerous, winning eight games in a row to climb to fourth place. But they were checked abruptly by the Athletics in yesterday's only other game, going down 4-0 and slipping to fifth place, a half game behind Washington.

The National League also comes in for its share of action in the next few days when the New York Giants and Chicago Cubs, second and third, respectively, and only 2½ games apart, tangle in a three-game series.

The Giants made a last-minute effort to plug the biggest gap in their lineup yesterday when they bought Chalmers (Bill) Cissell, veteran second sacker, from Baltimore.

Softball Leagues Are Very Close

Despite the rainy weather, the inter-club softball and baseball leagues have kept pretty much up to the schedule. With the beginning of this, the fourth week of competition, the race in all five leagues is very close.

In the Poo-Wee League, the Hasbrouck and High School teams, with two wins apiece, are in the lead. Loughran, with two wins and one defeat, is close behind. Hutton split, winning one and losing one. Barmann won one and lost two. Forsyth and Block lost both of their games.

In the Junior League, Hutton is in first place with 3 in the winning column. Barmann and High School have each won two games. Much interest should be shown in the Hutton-High School game played Tuesday. Block Park has come out even in the two games played. Hasbrouck, Forsyth and Loughran have each lost the only game played, while Cornell has been defeated three times.

The Loughran Intermediate softball team is ahead with three wins to its credit, and High School is a close second with two victories. The Block and Barmann teams have both won one and lost one. Hasbrouck, Hutton and Forsyth have lost all their games to date.

In the girls' softball league, Loughran has set the pace by winning both games played; Barmann has one in each column, and Hasbrouck has two losses. The Block girls have not been scheduled to play yet.

Block Park is leading the boys' baseball league, having won both games; Barmann has one win; Hasbrouck, Hutton and High School have each split the two games played. Forsyth has one loss and Loughran is in the cellar position with two defeats.

Fiddlers Lose At Chichester

Playing at Chichester, against the baseball team representing that community, Jack Haber's Fiddlers lost by 7-2 as Peck, the mountain hurler limited them to three hits, and struck out eight. He gave one free pass.

Peck's battery mate, Hoyt, besides working well behind the bat, collected three hits out of five times at the plate, one a home run. In the field the Chichester club worked perfectly to support Peck and make it three wins in a row.

Next week-end, the Chichester club plays two games, meeting the Wilbur Dodgers Saturday and the Ravens Claytons Sunday. With the Claytons will be "Legless Mike," the pitcher Ripley featured as having ability and power despite his physical handicap.

Another "Chain Gang"

New York, Aug. 2 (AP)—The New York Football Giants introduced the "chain store" idea into professional football today. John V. Mara, Giants' president, announced the New York club had purchased the Stapleton franchise in the American Association and would shift it to Jersey City.

Like the International League baseball club, the Jersey footballers will be known as the "Giants" and will play their home games in the Roosevelt Stadium.

City League Schedule Runs Over to Thursday Night

By Joe Kelly

The City Baseball League game tonight between the Kyanize and Hedricks has been put over to Thursday. The reason: Chris Heiselman, head of the board of public works needs a full day to put the Athletic Field in shape for the Kingston-Newburgh police game Wednesday. ... The feud between these clubs should resemble one of those old Colonial D. & H. General clashes. ... Jack Dawkins, playing manager of the Kyanize, keeps hustling until the last of it. ... This is one of the reasons the K's are battling for first half honors. ... This is what Jack Robins, veteran catcher, says. ... Charlie Neft is the main hope of the Hedricks. ... It'll be his pitching against the Kyanize power.

Sunday, the power boat drivers will give their first exhibition at Fischer's Yacht Basin on the Rondout Creek. ... There are 20 entries. ... Among them are Ray (Hobbs) Chick Miller, Don Schryver and Harold Davis of Kingston. ... Gus Stelgerwald is thinking football already. ... But until the leaves begin to turn, he'll keep occupied managing the Closis. ... Wiltwyck golfers were expected to be out today to watch L. E. Furman and J. W. Edinger in their tournament match. ... These boys are among the best at the club. ... Bud Zoller, Wilbur pitching star, is the captain of the canoe lifting team to be featured at the water program Sunday in Fischer's Yacht Basin. ... Sergeant Charlie Ferry says he's out to redeem himself for that last Jones scrap when he fights here Friday.

Speaking of the Giants. ... "Red" Callahan, No. 1 local Terry roofer, made the launt to the Red-Giants 11 inning tilt Sunday. ... Joe is a rabid roofer of the N. Y. Nationals and great was his woe when the Reds nipped the Terris in an overtime tilt. ... Reports from the big city have it that Red was so sickened by the sight of his Giants losing that he lost his appetite. ... At the rate the Giants are going now, Red better lay in a supply of good food. ... Them that brats are a great deal of pushover. ... Three Kingston boys aided Elmer Steele's club to trim Phoenixia Sunday. ... "Poppy" Merritt, Wait "Gad" Gadd and "Red" McLean were in the former big-timers' battine order. ... Merritt and Gadd work out of the Bridge City now and are doing all right with the Reynolds nine. ... McLean was spotted by Steele during the DUSO season and was signed for the summer by the wellknown umpire. ... Chaplan Van Derzee is going great guns for Bill Malloy's bill-billings. ... Chap sue can dig those grass-scissors off the turf. ... Lem scorcher, rookie outfielder of the Howard, will be on the spot tomorrow night. ... Lem's the only new-comer on the squad and the blackberries will watch that center field spot. ... Remember how you

Nate Lewis, head eagle of Chicago's loop, has joined the Ambers over Armstrong brigade. ... Jack Doyle, New York City No. 1 betting commissioner, has joined the Pirates a 7 to 1 favorite in the Nationals, and the Pirates are 1 in the American. ... The Southwest Conference's first passer, Jerry Mann, who led the Army and outperformed a career years ago—is running for the national seal in the football game. ... Sam Ryan and Art Ryan who used to handle Barney Ross have gone in for heavy-duty work for the first time and signed with the Redskins, promising to play in a five-year contract. ... The Redskins are ahead of the Packers, Hank Greenberg, and Jimmy Fox for first base on the all star team by a nation-wide vote of fans in a popularity contest and will receive a brand new auto when the Yanks come home next week. ... George Farnasus and Ceferino Garcia are due from the coast any day now to see Armstrong and Ambers and challenge Armstrong for his waterwheel crown. ... Some of the boys who lost all at Saratoga in a hurry, are back in New York telling that Tony Canzoneri is up there building himself a big B. R. against a tough winter.

Concrete Laying Completed on New 4-Lane Highway

The new four-lane concrete highway known as Route 28 from Kingston to West Hurley, is finished as far as the laying of concrete is concerned.

For the past week the Lane Construction Company, of Meriden, Conn., has been completing two laps in the pavement of the old alignment at the foot of the Stony Hollow hill and the other at the Walker farm on the Kingston flats. At the foot of the hill a short strip of one lane remained unfinished while at the Walker farm two lanes were incomplete due to a time allowance for new fill to settle. During the winter the two strips already laid at this location shifted due to settling of the fill, and considerable work was necessary to bring these strips back to the original position.

Workmen are busy along the entire route grading the shoulders, trimming the banks and laying concrete gutters to carry off surface water. In some places along the new alignment from Stony Hollow to West Hurley there is considerable debris on the pavement and motorists have to proceed with caution, especially at night, because of these obstructions.

The new route is a time saver for traffic between Kingston and West Hurley, and traverses a section of country that is void of any sign of habitation visible from the highway. Route 28 also holds the distinction of being the first four-lane highway in Ulster county and is well able to take care of the heavy traffic which usually is found on Route 28.

The young men who are fliers in leisure moments, are shown discussing plans for their proposed endurance flight over Ulster county in a light plane class. When this photo was taken they were waiting arrival of a new plane. Reports today from a reliable source say, the flight has been postponed.

New Deal in Background as 4 States Pic' Congress Tickets

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Roosevelt administration hoped today to balance the expected renomination of Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri with an overwhelming primary victory for Senator George McGill of Kansas.

These were the only two Democratic senatorial contests in four statewide primary elections, which provided few out-and-out tests of the President's policies.

Clark opposed the court bill and various other White House measures, but administration advisers took for granted his defeat of two New Deal supporters because he had the backing of both Democratic factions in his state.

Neither the President nor any of his lieutenants took part in the Missouri campaign. Mr. Roosevelt did not even pass through the state on his western trip, routing his train through Memphis instead of St. Louis.

Despite this absence by administration forces, anti-Roosevelt Democrats naturally would find a large majority for Clark pleasing. Some of them already have suggested him as a possible presidential nominee in 1940—25 years after his father nearly defeated Woodrow Wilson in convention.

In Kansas, Senator McGill had only nominal opposition, and the principal interest in the primary centered instead in selection of his Republican opponent.

Four men sought the nomination in a heated campaign. The Rev. Gerald B. Winrod, one of the aspirants, was accused of Nazi-Fascist sympathies and religious intolerance by some of his opponents and their backers. The evangelist in reply said these were "fantastic rumors."

John Hamilton, Republican national chairman, entered a party primary for the first time this year to criticize Winrod. He was joined by other party leaders. Kansas voters also were choosing nominees for governor, but this was not the case in Missouri, Virginia and West Virginia. All four states, however, were selecting nominees for House seats.

One of the House contests in Virginia was fought, principally on the Roosevelt issue. Representative Howard W. Smith, rules committee member who helped delay the wage-hour bill, was opposed by William D. Dodd Jr., son of the former ambassador to Germany.

The 32-year-old Dodd is an ardent New Dealer whom Smith declared would be only a "rubber stamp." Smith told voters he

Second Earthquake

New York, Aug. 2 (AP)—A slight earthquake—the second in the metropolitan area within a week—was reported today by the Rev. Joseph Lynch, director of the Seismological Observatory at Fordham University. Father Lynch said the disturbance, recorded at 4:02 a. m. (EST), was about 16 miles from the University. He said the shock was much less severe than the one which shook Manhattan early last Friday.

Police headquarters said the quake was unnoticed within the city.

Coolidge Phrase Now Applied to Roosevelt And Argument is Rife

Washington, August 2 (AP)—Eleven years ago today, Calvin Coolidge uttered one of the most famous sentences of modern politics.

"I do not choose to run for President in 1928."

The reverberations caused by the cryptic announcement have died with the passing years, but on the anniversary there is argument once more over the issue behind the statement—a presidential third term.

Some politicians predict Franklin D. Roosevelt will seek a third term in the White House in 1940. Others declare he will not. Some say they will support him if he does others contend he could not win.

Only last night Senator Lewis (D-MI), a Roosevelt follower, said a bid from the President for renomination would destroy the Democratic party. He added, however, that he believed Mr. Roosevelt was "not such a man as to present himself for a continuous third term."

Senator Smathers (D-NJ), on the other hand, said his one remaining political ambition was to help re-elect Mr. Roosevelt because "there is no one big enough or strong enough to carry on for him."

"Conservative and reactionary forces" of both major parties, Smathers said are backing Vice President Garner, but he expressed the belief Garner would not let his name be used "in a scheme to scrap the humane progress of the New Deal."

81-Year-Old Father Calls Self Crackerjack

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—George Boardman, the 81-year-old father of a new-born son, attributed his good fortune today to his "standing in well with the Lord."

Boardman and his 21-year-old third wife decided to name the baby Herbert. His first wife bore him 25 children, he said.

The spry old man, who is a night watchman for a steamship line, is proud of his record as a father.

"Bet folks think I'm a crackerjack, don't they?" he exclaimed.

7 Arrive Safely At Boulder City

Boulder City, Nev., Aug. 2 (AP)—Two Michigan schoolma'ams, who sailed 666 miles down the treacherous Colorado river past rapids and whirlpools, patted their copper-tanned cheeks with a powder puff today and ordered a victory dinner of rattlesnake steak.

The only women in history to complete the perilous voyage from Green River, Utah, to Boulder Dam, Elzada Clover, 40-year-old University of Michigan botanist, and her assistant, Lois Jotter, 25, arrived here with five men companions last night.

They came in three small, motorless boats—like Christopher Columbus—towed gently over the placid surface of Lake Mead by a launch after 43 days in the jagged gorges of the Colorado.

In command was Norman D. Nevills, veteran riverman of Mexican Hat, Utah.

With him and the two women were Wilbur C. Gibson, San Francisco photographer, only other member of the expedition to make the entire journey, Emory Kolb, Del Reed and Loren Bell, who joined at Lees Ferry, the halfway point.

"It has been more successful than we dreamed it would be," Dr. Clover exclaimed. "Two hitherto unknown species of cacti were discovered and we found an abundance of plant life which was not known to exist along the Colorado."

The expedition caught a rattler last Sunday—the only moment of the voyage—and carefully brought it to Boulder City to be skinned and cooked. The feminine pair said they would have some.

M. Reina's Experience Novel and Pleasant

Paging Mr. Ripley! Here is a real "believe it or not" item that even Mr. Ripley would have difficulty in matching.

M. Reina, local General Electric appliance dealer, recently sold a General Electric Oil Furnace to a party in a neighboring community. The Reina representative had been dealing with the lady of the house and the purchase was all but completed when the husband of the future furnace-using lady, seeing the salesman, discussed a further allowance on the old heating plant and after considerable discussion an agreement of $30 allowance was reached.

Evidently, said husband, proud of his bargaining, broke the news to his wife, who immediately wrote to Reina. And, you can imagine the appliance dealer's surprise when he received the card. The lady desires to pay the originally contracted price and not take the extra $30 allowance secured by her husband. She says she did not think it quite right for him to ask the dealer to lose his profit on the transaction and asked that the papers for the sale be made out for the price agreed to by her.

When seen yesterday, Mr. Reina, although still suffering from shock, said that if there were only a few more people like this customer in the world the life of an appliance dealer surely would be a much easier one to live. He said that in all the years he has been connected with the merchandising of electrical appliances of all kinds, this is the first time anything of the kind has happened in any deal. Rather, he said the direct opposite has been true.

Saratoga Yearling Sale

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP)—Saratoga's annual sales of yearling horses, almost as important as the races, get under way at the sales paddock tonight. They will continue nightly, except Saturday and Sunday, for two weeks. In that time about a quarter million dollars worth of young horses, some of which may be famous racers in a year or two, will parade before the auctioneer.

Cigarette Tax Gold Mine

New York, Aug. 2 (AP)—The new one-cent a package relief tax on cigarettes looks like a gold mine today to city officials. City Treasurer Almerindo Portofino said collections in the three months since the tax was passed amounted to $2,316,179. He estimated the city would harvest $9,000,000 this year—exactly three times what had been expected.

This unusual record makes Moore famous when Lane, a reporter, breaks the story in the New York papers.
